

NIPPON'S FORCES ALL BUT WRECK SHANGHAI DEFENSES

Occupy Tachang and Miaochang; Cut Shanghai-Nanking Railroad

SPECTACULAR VICTORY

Only Sudden Counter-Attack Can Halt Japanese War Machine, Is Belief

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26.—(INS)—In a spectacular series of victories, Nippon's forces all but wrecked China's Shanghai defenses today, occupying Tachang and Miaochang and cutting the Shanghai Railway.

Only a sudden Chinese counter-attack, waged against almost overwhelming odds, can now halt the Japanese war machine on the 25-mile Shanghai battle front, observers believe.

Indicating the carnage that preceded the latest stunning Chinese defeats, a Japanese spokesman claimed Chinese casualties up to October 23 amounted to a quarter of a million men.

Of this number, the spokesman said, 67,000 Chinese were left dead on the field of battle.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26.—(INS)—Striking a mighty blow at Shanghai's defenses as one hundred war planes rained death from the skies and desperate combat raged in the street, Japanese troops today entered the strategic center of Tachang, six miles north of the city.

The slashing Japanese victory was conceded by a Chinese military spokesman, who admitted Tachang had been occupied.

The Japanese coup, accomplished after a mass bombing maneuver by the 100 planes and suicidal hand-to-hand fighting in Tachang itself, left the Chinese military position around Shanghai dangerously precarious unless the city's defenders can organize an immediate and telling counter-attack.

Tachang, before it was captured, was reduced to nothing more than ruins by Japanese guns and bombs. Large Chinese reinforcements were rushed into the wreckage, but in hours of bitter fighting proved unable to stave off the Nipponese advance.

Other heavy Chinese troop reinforcements, sent into nearby Kwangtu, indicated a major counter-movement may be in preparation.

The Chinese conceded Japan's seizure of Tachang about mid-afternoon. All day long the opposing troops had been locked in a fierce struggle, with Japan's determination to gain the upper hand spurred by the approach of the nine power conference in Brussels.

DECIDES TO GO TO JAIL; BREAKS TWO DISPLAY WINDOWS

Deciding he wanted to go to jail, according to report of Bristol police, James Persichillo, 28, hurled missiles through two large display windows on the Pond street side of the furniture store of Louis Dries, this morning.

The plate-glass windows were broken between four and five o'clock, with Persichillo being taken in custody by officer Vansant, and lodged in the municipal building.

At a hearing this morning Persichillo was held under $500 bail for court. The hearing was conducted by justice of the peace, James Guy. The charge lodged was malicious mischief.

Persichillo, it is claimed, has no home here; but his parents reside in Jersey City, N. J. The young man had been in this section for the last six months.

Persichillo, according to the police, was arrested about two years ago in Elizabeth, when it was alleged that he and another man were about to stage a hold-up. Persichillo, at that time, it was said, was armed with a sawed-off shot gun while his companion had an automatic.

COLLEGE EDUCATION HELD WORTH WHILE

Graduates Are Shown To Have Had Greater Success

WEATHERED THE SLUMP

(Note: What is the college man's fate in the competitive world and what do large employers think of him? These interesting phases are discussed in this, the third and last of a series of articles on the value of college education.—INS.)

By Raymond Wilcox
(U. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—(INS)—The best available information indicates that college graduates weathered the depression—probably the severest test of a man's ability to hold a job this country has ever known—far better than any other group.

Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of the men and women on work relief rolls in Allegheny County, exclusive of administrative and technical supervisors, are college graduates.

The number with college training of any kind is only 2.2 per cent, a low rate even on the basis of the small proportion of college people in the whole population.

A survey of the educational background of WPA workers was made under direction of the WPA and the State Employment Service. At the time the study was made there were 37,000 persons on WPA rolls. The analysis showed:

|-----------------------|-------------------------|
| College graduates | Too small to be charted |
| College experience | 2.2 |
| High school graduates | 6 |
| Attended high school | 15 |
| Grades 6-8 | 46.3 |
| Grades 1-5 | 22 |
| No formal schooling | 8.5 |
| Total | 100.00 |

The average school life of those on work relief was found to be grade 7.4.

George P. Mills, executive director of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, in charge of direct or cash relief, corroborated the WPA study. He said:

"While we have made no survey, my observation is that the number of college graduates on the rolls at present or at any time during the depression, is negligible. When the situation was worst there were a few college graduates getting relief, but they were mostly young people just out of college rather than heads of families."

Around 750,000 individuals have been on cash relief at one time or another in Allegheny County, Mills stated. At present there are 63,000.

How does the college man or woman rate with employers?

Those professionally or technically educated have the first call, according to employment experts. The purely cultural college course does not mean so much on the salary side.

Dr. E. B. Roberts, personnel expert in technical employment for Westinghouse, said:

"There is no question but that a college education is an advantage, especially along technical lines. We have more than 2,000 college men. Thoroughly trained men, and that includes graduates of engineering schools, are always in demand. Some men, though, can't take a college education. There is an old saying, 'It is easy to spoil a good draftsman by making him a poor engineer.'"

H. S. Leese, in charge of non-technical employment for Westinghouse, had a good word for college girls in office jobs, said:

"We find that college girls make the best secretaries. They have cultural background, charm and poise. Their spelling is generally far superior to the non-college girl. You don't have to tell them when to start a new paragraph or anything about punctuation."

F. J. Chesterman, vice-president and general manager of the Western Pennsylvania Division, Bell Telephone Company, another of the district's large employers, said:

"A good man is a good man whether he is a college man or not. A college education develops what is inside his head, but it doesn't give him something he never had."

"Ability is not only a question of brains but of personality and other things. We take on many college men in non-technical lines and a tremendous number of non-college men. They fight it out together and the best man gets to the top. We do not give

Candidate for Council

LOUIS C. SPRING

Republican Candidate for the Second Ward, for Bristol Borough Council

From the most modest beginnings, and with nothing to aid him but his own initiative and determination, Louis C. Spring has become one of the outstanding citizens of the town in which he was born—a self-made man in every sense of the word.

In voting for him for re-election to Borough Council in the Election on November 2nd, his fellow citizens of the Second Ward will be supporting a man whose whole history, whose every interest, is interwoven with the interests of Bristol and its people.

He is well and favorably known throughout the whole community—a man who has gone forward and acquired some of the things of life by hard work and intelligent application. But as he has gone up the ladder, rung by rung and always by his own persistent efforts, the words of Kipling best describe him—"He has not lost the common touch."

He knows the problems of the wage-earner, and the sacrifices that often confront the modest home, from personal knowledge gained through his own experience.

Born on Bath St., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Spring who now reside on Jefferson avenue, "Lou" Spring was graduated from the public schools of Bristol, and then completed a commercial course at

ENDEAVOR TO LOCATE FIRMS IN MORRISVILLE

Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Want P. R. R. To Induce Firms to Locate

IN OLD R. R. YARDS

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 26.—Efforts are being made to secure sufficient interest on the part of officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to bring some large plant to this section. Great activity is being manifest by Morrisville Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Thomas B. Stockham.

There are over 300 acres of land, all graded, which the railroad formerly used for yards. In addition there are many acres, not graded, but conveniently located, and which are adjacent to the Lincoln Highway, west of Fallsington. Piped for water is half of this tract.

No activity has been manifest in the old yards during the past five years, the section formerly being one of the largest and most active railroad centers. The buildings, engine house, shops, offices, coal chutes, and dwellings for workers were removed some time ago. Some of these were left to decay and fall down, while others were torn down by contractors. In some instances parts of the buildings, equipment and furnishings were carted away by men, boys and women when they found they could work at times without being molested by railroad authorities.

In 1926, activity at the railroad yards was at its peak and Morrisville was enjoying boom times. About 1,000 men were employed at West Morrisville at that time and the annual payroll was approximately $2,000,000. In 1932 there was a marked falling off of business in the yards and on August 15, 1934, entire operations there were abandoned.

The yards were opened in 1888. At that time the New York freight all came through Philadelphia and there was from 24 to 36 hours delay. It was then the railroad officials decided to build the Trenton Branch which was completed June 10, 1892. After that a large part of the New York freight came through the Morrisville yards and in 1905 it was deemed advisable to increase the capacity of the yards and to build 32 miles of additional track. This served all purposes until 1914 when it was necessary to construct approximately 18 miles of additional track west of Fallsington. With this addition it was possible to store 7,100 cars and have a daily movement of 3,500 or 110,000 to 120,000 cars a month. This tremendous business continued until 1929 when there was an appreciable drop so that the company began to reduce forces.

When the railroad yards here were closed, the various departments were transferred to other sections including Jersey City, Sunnyside, L. I., Philadelphia, Camden, and Trenton.

Two well known Morrisville men, both now retired, served as yardmasters at these yards for many years. They are Samuel J. Vogan, of Crown street, and Councilman Henry M. Griffith, of Washington street.

realities, he has refused to believe that those among his intimates who told him the facts knew what they were talking about.

NOW HE KNOWS he is faced with a really serious situation. In some ways it is more serious than the highly dramatized state of affairs that existed when he came into office—and requires more resourcefulness and courage to handle—it may be, more than he has. Up to date, his effort has been to prevent his private perturbation from being sensed at the press conferences and in preserving his pose of the untroubled man of infinite wisdom with whom all is well. This may be good from one angle, but underneath things have been seething in the White House circle, and some of the Hyde Park conferences that do not get into the papers have been serious, indeed.

TWO THINGS tend to prevent Mr. Roosevelt from facing squarely up to the realities, and using the drastic and obvious remedies urged

Candidate for Council

WILLIAM WEBSTER WARNER

Republican Candidate for the Second Ward, for Bristol Borough Council

Rounding out his second term in Borough Council, to which he was first elected in 1929, William Webster Warner was nominated in the September Primary and will be a candidate for re-election on November 2nd, to continue his public services to his constituents of the Second Ward and the community as a whole.

Mr. Warner has given an excellent accounting in the discharge of his duties and responsibilities as a member of Borough Council, and is running for re-election on a record that has earned the approval of his fellow citizens.

Born at Mt. Carmel, Pa., 46 years ago, the son of the late David and Margaret Warner, Mr. Warner attended the Tremont High School, Trenton, Pa., and the Trenton Art School, Trenton, N. J.

For the past 21 years he has been engaged in the garage business, being the proprietor of Enterprise Garage, Wood and Washington streets.

Mr. Warner is a member of Bristol Lodge of Elks, the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, and Enterprise Fire Company No. 5. He is also a member of the Anchor Yacht Club and the Edgely Rod & Gun Club.

In Council he is a member of the Street and Highway Committee and the Police Committee. His active canvass for re-election has been exceptionally well received.

HEAVY RAIN WELCOMED BY BUCKS CO. FARMERS

Shortage of Water Was Reported in Several of the Farming Communities

MOST CROPS HARVESTED

Although the rain the latter part of last week interrupted the farmers in Bucks county with their corn harvest, County Agent William F. Greenawalt, Doylestown, said it had been very beneficial to the farmers, especially to those who for some weeks were compelled to carry water because of an exhaustion of the supply in wells and cisterns in several sections.

Until the heavy rain last week the farmers in the county were making steady progress with their corn husking.

Mr. Greenawalt pointed out that the rain will be especially helpful for the Fall grains, including wheat, barley and rye. It is almost too late, he added, to help most of the Fall vegetables, but it is believed the late spinach will derive some benefits.

Fruit growers, especially those engaged at present in the harvest of the apple crop, which as a whole is quite good in the county, have not welcomed the rain with too much enthusiasm. The dampness will have a tendency to

County Officers See How The G-Men Work

Thirty men, members and friends of the Bucks County Police and Constables' Association, from all sections of the county, were guests of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C.

Particularly impressed were the law enforcement officers of the county, who made the trip in a bus, by the workings of the Federal Bureau of Investigation—home of the G-men—in the Capitol City.

Because they were "brothers under the skin," the Bucks officers were taken into many of the chambers and laboratories, where are solved the Nation's most sensational crimes, and shown how the wheels go round.

Of interest to the men was a brilliantly perfect exhibition of shooting and handling fire-arms by a crack G-man. The demonstration was perfect and also included an exhibition of the latest equipment in fire-arms.

In the Department of Justice building, which houses the finger-print and identification bureau, the visitors were told that 800 people are employed in the identification bureau. At least 5,000 fingerprints are received daily.

BENSALEM HOCKEY SQUAD LOSES TO BUCKINGHAM

By Louis Tomlinson

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 26.—Bensalem's hockey squad lost its second consecutive tilt in a row when they were sent down to defeat at the hands of a strong Buckingham eleven here yesterday afternoon to the tune of 1-0.

Miss Smith's Blue and Gray lassies from down the Pike dropped a heart breaker when the Up-County team took them over in a close fray full of action and keenly contested in the hardest fought game the Bensalem girls have participated in this season to date.

But now the Owlets are looking forward to and preparing for their next tilt which is on Wednesday afternoon, October 27, when they encounter the strong Richmond eleven at Bensalem.

"RECS" HOCKEY TEAM CONQUERS "SPARROWS"

Saturday night the "Recs" hockey team traveled to Pottstown and conquered the Sanstoga "Sparrows" of that city, 3-2.

The "Recs" trailed the home team into the last period by the score of 2-0. With three minutes left to play, the "Recs" started a scoring spree that completely routed the "Sparrows."

Rabbit Reimer started the "Recs" march to victory with a shot from the defense position. George Ritter then tallied, followed with a long shot off the stick of Mush Higgins, assisted by a pass from Sam Leaper, after which came the final whistle.

Farm Organizations Back Tax Proposals

Washington, Oct. 26.—Major farm organizations will back proposals for the levying of up to $500,000,000 in processing taxes annually to finance the new farm program, it was indicated today. Revival of the old AAA legislation, perhaps in modified form, was planned in a measure sponsored by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and farm organizations and leaders of the Congressional farm bloc.

Violent opposition to the processing taxes as taxes upon necessities of life already is beginning to take place, and a bitter battle is expected.

Await Hoover Speech

Washington, Oct. 26.—Political circles awaited with keen interest today a speech which ex-President Herbert Hoover makes tonight before the Republican Club of Massachusetts.

Mr. Hoover follows by one week the slashing attack on the New Deal made by Governor Alfred M. Landon, and like Landon, the former President will have a national radio audience.

Reports have been current in Republican quarters that both Hoover and Landon have mutually agreed to take themselves out of the 1940 nomination picture. There has been, however, no confirmation of these reports, and the activities of the two since their meeting at the home of Frank O. Lowden in Illinois have cast a good deal of doubt as to their accuracy.

King George Opens Parliament

London, Oct. 26.—Under the eye of their two young daughters, Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth opened Parliament today for the first time since their reign began.

In his "speech from the throne" written by the ministers and free from all sensations—the King touched briefly on the Far Eastern and Spanish wars and dealt lengthily with the tremendous program of forthcoming domestic legislation.

He also announced that he had invited King Carol of Rumania to visit him this Spring and said he hoped to pay a visit to India at some distant date.

Consider "Isolation" of Russia

Bitter warfare in the Far East and bitter words in Europe, held the spotlight on the international stage today, as London considered a move for diplomatic isolation of Soviet Russia, and Japan strove to surround Chinese armies in Shanghai.

London—Verbal fireworks were anticipated at non-intervention sub-committee meeting as a result of British desire to snub the Soviets in the hope this sop to Italy might rescue Spanish neutrality move from collapse.

Shanghai—Japanese forces in Shanghai region won a spectacular series of victories, occupying Tachang and Miaochang and cutting off the Nanking railroad. A Japanese spokesman claimed the Japanese casualties up to October 23rd amounted to a quarter of a million men.

Peripatetic, France—French destroyer Milan patrolling the waters around the Spanish Balearic Islands off Minorca, as the mysterious seaplane bombed and set fire to a French submarine chaser.

Fighting To The Death

Shanghai, Oct. 26.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Emperor Hiro Hito figuratively met in battle today in Shanghai and tens of thousands of Chinese and Japanese are dying because their superior commanders ordered them to fight until death.

The battle of Shanghai is comparable to heaviest engagements of the Great War, with Japanese troops animated by an imperial edict that they must win a victory before the Brussels nine-power conference, and they captured the village of Tachang.

The Great Game of Politics

upon him and in which he really believes. One is his overwhelming vanity. To be completely frank with the country about conditions involves a confession of Administration mistakes from which his pride revolts. It means admitting that the reasons business has slumped and a depression looms are because of the absurdly unsound taxation burdens which he has imposed, by reason of which he is responsible for the increased cost of production resulting from his policies, and because of the fear engendered by the mountainous debt he has piled up and the radical legislative program he now demands.

TO AVERT WHAT they are convinced will be a major disaster the President has been told that these things should be done and done quickly—first, repeal of the surplus profits tax; second, modification of the capital gains tax; third, a balance of the budget through economies; fourth, no more disturbing experimental legislation. There is not—or at any rate should not be—anything humiliating for the President in doing these things, but he hates justifying his critics and shrinks from hearing the chorus of "I told you so's."

And the only reason he has been brought to the point of acceptance is through being thoroughly scared about the consequences of not doing them. The trouble is that in the absence of a concrete crash, and comforted by the yes, yes group, he gets over being scared. It is a blow to his pride to be forced to "let up" on business. What he would like to do would be to carry out the threat of his Madison Square Garden speech of last October and show business men generally that he is their "master." The danger is that his disposition, plus the advice of his left-wing friends who still cling to the idea that the national planning days are not over, will finally divert him from what in some quarters is being called a "return to sanity."

THE MORE LEVELHEADED of his consultants tell him that this is a situation which cannot be temporized with, and that for the sake of the country as a whole the relaxing tax program should be put through as soon as the extra session convenes. If the President will put himself back of such a program and tell the Congress why it will go through, they say, like a shot and have an electrifying effect upon industry. But, apparently, the President is not going to do any such thing. He is scared but not that scared. He proposes to lay before the tax committees of Congress the Administration's revising tax proposals, but not to urge action until the regular session. That means, of course, that it will not be possible to get a tax bill before the end of February, which, in their judgment, is taking unnecessary risks.

SO FAR AS BUDGET is concerned, he is undoubtedly in earnest, but he is not "steamed up" to the point of slashing things right and left the way he did in 1933—and it can't be done unless he is. He has announced, it is true, that any additional appropriation made next session must be covered "one hundred per cent by new taxes." But that is merely a return to the sound idea sold him by Mr. B. M. Baruch before his 1933 inauguration. That was the plan he had when he took office, but inside of three months he had thrown it into the ash can. It is a performance which, unhappily, he may repeat. To get back to solvency now will need more determination and force than it took for his twenty-five per cent cut in 1933. In that year, it will be recalled, he reduced the veteran pension load some $450,000,000, but in two years the veterans had it all back—and got their bonus in the bargain.

IT IS INFINITELY harder to cut now than then because now he has to cut his own expenses and then it was the expenses of his predecessor. Yet the Government costs have so swollen that in the most prosperous year the revenues are a billion dollars below expenditures, and a bad year with a slump in tax receipts would put the Treasury on the rocks. That's a bald statement but it's true. Every competent man in the Government knows it. The fear is that until the big crack comes his pride will keep him from the sort of heroic action essential to save the situation. And then it will be too late.

Candidate for Council

the Rider Business College, in Trenton, N. J.

For a year or so he was employed by the Lambertville (N. J.) Spoke and Wheel Company. But he soon determined to enter the textile industry. And with that decision made, he demonstrated one of his outstanding characteristics—thoroughness; a satisfaction with nothing less than complete knowledge and understanding.

He first took the course of the Philadelphia Textile School; followed that by going to the Bradford Technical College, the Hallowe'en party in St. Paul's Chapel, Edgely.

Thus equipped, he entered the employ of William H. Grundy Co., Inc., in 1899, and rose step by step until he reached the position he now occupies as superintendent of the Grundy mill, here in Bristol.

Following the death of Armand V. Morris, member of Borough Council from the Second Ward, in October, 1935, Mr. Spring was appointed to that vacancy to finish out the term which is now expiring. He was nominated in the recent Primary for another full term, and on November 2nd his fellow citizens of the Second Ward will have the opportunity to re-elect an able and conscientious public servant, whose service is based upon a thorough understanding of Bristol and its people, and their needs.

Recognizing Mr. Spring's business ability, upon entering council, he was assigned as a member of the Finance and Public Property and the Fire Committees, two very important phases of the borough's activities.

His every interest is centered right here in Bristol.

preference to college men for ordinary jobs."

Presley H. McCance, director of personnel for the Philadelphia Company, holding corporation for practically all public utilities here, asked if college men were preferred in non-technical jobs, answered:

"It is pretty hard to answer that question 'yes' or 'no.' A college man would not fit into some jobs. By the time we got him trained he would be leaving us for something better. In such a case a high school man, business trained, probably would be better for our purposes. College diplomas unfit some men for clerical tasks."

A woman employment agency manager, herself college educated, expressed the opinion that, aside from those technically trained too many young people are going to college if ability to earn a living is the criterion. She commented:

"Too many parents are depriving themselves to put their children through college. When the children are finished they are weighted down by the debt they owe their parents. They enter life without a free mind. My observation has been that if a boy gets a job when he is through high school and then takes an evening school course he will co-ordinate his knowledge with his work and save a lot of time and money."

Be the dollars and cents appraisal what it may, a college education pays big dividends in leadership, according to a comprehensive analysis by Who's Who.

Of the 31,681 persons eminent in various fields named in the 1934-35 edition, 21,961 were college graduates. College men, including graduates and non-graduates, totaled 25,437, or 86.56 per cent of the entire list.

1924-25 collegians represented only 77.36 per cent of the whole, indicating the increasing proportion of college men and women attaining to outstanding place, despite their comparative numerical paucity.
